Penetration: The Question of Extraterrestrial and Human Telepathy By Ingo Swann

In "Penetration," Ingo Swann, renowned psi researcher, reveals long-held secrets about a covert U.S. government "remote viewing" agency, which later was made famous by the book and movie, "The Men Who Stare At Goats."

This agency was so secret that it had no paper trail, and hence no written secrecy agreements (only verbal ones). Once Swann's agreement expired, he was free to tell of meetings in underground bunkers near Washington, D.C., and of being taken to a remote location near the Arctic Circle, where he witnessed the arrival of a huge UFO over the surface of an Alaskan lake.

This book discusses undeveloped human telepathy, and contrasts it with the probable existence of fully developed alien telepathy, which may have many different forms.

Swann also explores the fact that we officially know far more than we're admitting about the Moon, which sometimes exhibits unusual features.

"Penetration" is about ESP and telepathy - the means by which we can learn more about those not of this earth. Do we have the means to answer some very important questions about our reality? Inside these pages lie some of the possible answers.
