Blow Your House Down (Virago Modern Classics) By Pat Barker

A city and its people are in the grip of a killer who is roaming the northern city, singling out prostitutes. The face of his latest victim stares out from every newspaper and billboard, haunting the women who walk the streets. But life and work go on. Brenda, with three children, can't afford to give up while Audrey, now in her forties, desperately goes on 'working the cars'.

And then, when another woman is savagely murdered, Jean, her lover, takes desperate measures...

Editorial Review

Review

Barker's creative vision is as in touch with the psychologically primordial as Melville's? HARPER'S

Swift, spare, and utterly absorbing ... [Barker] makes us see her characters from within... and thereby reveals the full individuality and humanity of women who have got short shrift both in literature and in life? NY

TIMES BOOK REVIEW

Barker's talent for gently sifting through the hidden depths of the human psyche is awesome? NOVA
